Commissioners propose ordinance on public gatherings

BY COLLIN OVERTON

Jefferson County Commissioners held the first reading of an ordinance Friday that would require permits for parades, public solicitations and public assemblies involving more than 10 people.

Citing concerns from residents over demonstrations at the courthouse and other events, Commission President Dave Bramer said commissioners felt it was best to work with legal counsel and set forth requirements to tighten safety. But he said many of the fine points remain to be worked out, like where and how exactly the law would apply.

The ordinance reads that permits are required for submission and review by the county for "any march, demonstration, procession, street solicitation or motorcade consisting of persons, animals or vehicles or a combination of them upon the streets, sidewalks, parks or other public grounds within the county with an intent of attracting public attention that interferes with or has the tendency to interfere with the normal flow or regulation of pedestrian or vehicle traffic upon the streets, sidewalks, parks or other public grounds."

Commissioner permits would be required for any parade, public assembly or public solicitation unless for a funeral procession, students going to and from classes or educational activities under the direction of school personnel. A governmental agency acting under the scope of its functions or lawful picketing for a labor dispute that does not otherwise violate state or federal law would also be exempt.

Based on the ordinance read Friday, permits would be required on the county courthouse campus downtown, in unincorporated areas, and in Madison or Hanover if those areas do not currently have similar ordinances in place.

Hill awarded IFRW scholarship

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Madison's Megan Hill has been named as one of two Hoosier recipients of the Indiana Federation of Republican Women scholarship for 2020.

Megan Hill

The daughter of Chris and Natalie Hill of Madison, she is a 2017 graduate of Shawe and a senior at Butler University in Indianapolis where her major area of study is political science, with a minor in Spanish.

The announcement was made at the IFRW's statewide meeting, held by teleconference on Aug. 17.

During her sophomore year at Butler, she served an Indiana Statehouse internship during one legislative session for the Indiana House Republicans. During fall 2019, she studied in Spain for one semester. After graduation from Butler University in spring 2021, she hopes to attend law school.

Karen Mannix, president of the Jefferson County Republican Women, said the club is thrilled that Hill was selected for the honor. "Megan is a great example of a young person getting involved in public life at an early age. Her scholastic abilities and her character make her the ideal candidate for this award. We are so proud of her and her accomplishments, and wish her well in coming years," Mannix said.

The Indiana Federation of Republican Women Scholarship is awarded to men and women who are currently sophomores, juniors or seniors at an Indiana college or university. Those enrolled in a master's program are also eligible. Consideration is given to both traditional and non-traditional students. Two scholarships are awarded annually, each for $1,000.

The other winner of a 2020 IFRW Scholarship is Claire Nieshalla of Zionsville, who is a sophomore at Taylor University.

phase — before officials and architects settle on all the specifics, finalize the construction documents and potentially open bidding this winter for the estimated $36.7 million project on Madison's hilltop.

The recently-formed Jefferson County Jail Building Corporation, the county oversight body for the project, met first and adopted articles of incorporation, bylaws and the execution of lease between the corporation and the county.

Then DLZ architects Eric Ratts and Phillip Wink presented detailed floor plans to a team of county commissioners, sheriff's office personnel and Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black to go over safety and operational logistics of the facility as planned. The team discussed specifics like the potential location of fire hydrants, plumping, electrical circuits and mechanical details of the building with Black in the event the fire department has to respond to a fire call at the facility. The architects then went over the layout and the building materials to be used in the project as well as sight lines and building elevation, which will be finalized at later meetings.

As it stands, the building is projected to include 81,440 square feet, with a 70,290 square-foot first floor and an 11,150 square-foot second floor mezzanine. The jail as currently designed to hold 300 inmates.

The team now will meet at an as yet to be determined date in a couple weeks to discuss food service, staffing and refine other specifics.

ORDINANCE

As for the time span, applications for parades would need to be filed a minimum of 30 days in advance, but no longer than 365 days before an event. Applications for public assemblies, however, would need to be filed 10 days in advance. However, the ordinance specified that exceptions can be made on a case-by-case basis.

Bramer said Monday he is confident it would apply in Hanover, but commissioners were still working to see if it would apply throughout the city of Madison as well.

As for the time span, applications for parades would need to be filed a minimum of 30 days in advance, but no longer than 365 days before an event. Applications for public assemblies, however, would need to be filed 10 days in advance. However, the ordinance specified that exceptions can be made on a case-by-case basis.

In the event of a parade, the applicant must provide the name, address and telephone number of the person organizing the parade, headquarters of the organization, and person serving as head of the organization hosting the event. Applications must also include the starting and ending point of the parade route, approximate number of persons, hours, location, a statement on whether the parade will take up the entire street, activities planned during the event, amplification equipment and any other important information for consideration.

Commissioners would also present the Jefferson County Sheriff's office with a copy of the application to help determine the appropriate police presence for traffic control and public safety as well as copies to the local fire chief, EMS director or anyone else deemed necessary to determine the response.

Scheduling is another essential part of the ordinance, as no two events would be allowed to organize on the same day and time to allow police to focus their attention and staffing on a singular event, Bramer said.

If an application is denied, applicants can appeal within five days of receipt by filing a written notice with commissioners and providing a copy to the county clerk. Commissioners would then act on the appeal at the next regular scheduled meeting.

Penalties for violating any provision of the ordinance carry a civil fine of no less than $25 but no more than $2,500.

Warren Auxier, president of the Jefferson County Plan Commission, warned commissioners that the ordinance could open "one huge can of worms" regarding First Amendment rights and said, if passed, permits would be needed for regular occurrences like the motorcycle groups who meet for veterans and parents gathering to cheer on buses of student athletes leaving for state competitions.

With that said, later versions of the ordinance could need language specifying exceptions and addressing the possibility of gatherings under 10 people that sometimes attract far more people —like the Klu Klux Klan picnics held in downtown Madison over the past few years that start out as a handful of people but draw far more — than the application specifies, Auxier said.

"I'd really feel comfortable if you had someone who was very familiar with the constitutionality of limiting public assembly and ability to do those type of things. Because those lawsuits — I follow them from time to time on a federal basis— they get extremely expensive quick," Auxier said.

In other business Friday, the commissioners:

• Heard a presentation by representatives of the Heritage Trail Conservancy requesting $25,000 to help meet their fundraising goal to acquire additional property and add a large water feature, fishing dock and a small gazebo, among other additions, to the trail.

• Appointed Bramer to the Jefferson County Board of Tourism replacing Robert Little, who resigned from the Board earlier this month.

• Conducted the third reading and passage of the Fair Housing Ordinance, which includes anti-discriminatory provisions for single parents, individuals of different sexual orientations and other groups.

Sargeant, who has not been formally charged with any crime in Indiana, is wanted for attempted murder in Ohio and is a person of interest in murders in Ohio and West Virginia. He was lodged in the Minnehaha County Jail at 6:27 a.m. on Monday.

Emich was lodged in the same jail at 6:32 a.m. Monday and both are being held as fugitives from justice with no bond set.

The two are wanted in Indiana for questioning in the roadside shooting of a Jefferson County, Kentucky, family that wounded a man and a woman at State Road 462 and Old Forest Road in southwest Harrison County and the abandonment of the car believed used in that attack and theft of a pickup truck about 15 miles away in Crawford County. Multiple rounds were fired into the vehicle, a 2016 Hyundai Santa Fe, and a third family members in the rear passenger seat escaped being wounded.

Sargent, of Akron, was wanted by Akron police as a suspect in the shooting of a man on the Towpath Trail there on Aug. 17. He also became a person of interest in the fatal shooting of Rebecca Tomlinson, 22, on Aug. 18, Akron police said.

Sargent is also a suspect in another shooting death on Aug. 19 in West Virginia, the U.S. Marshal for the Northern District of Ohio said on Friday. The West Virginia case was initially investigated as a fatal car crash until the 62-year-old male victim in the crash was found with gunshot wounds.

U.S. Marshal Peter Elliott said the fatal shootings all happened before the incident in Indiana.

Authorities in Indiana had asked for help in locating the couple last week but cautioned that both individuals should be considered armed and dangerous and not be approached.

According to the Indiana State Police, additional information could be forthcoming as details develop in the case.

Madison victim of its own mistakes in loss to Paoli

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Madison was its own worst enemy on Friday with mistakes and self-inflicted wounds doing the most damage in a 28-27 season opening loss to Paoli.

The Cubs held Paoli to just 170 total yards and seven first downs, yet three turnovers led directly to 21 points, and a blocked extra point — with just 10 players on the field — proved to be the difference in the loss.

The mistakes left Madison head coach Leroy Wilson III, knowing his team gave away a golden opportunity at a victory, seething.

"We gave that one away. I apologized to the defense out there. It was one of those things where we brought it at times and then at other times we didn't," Wilson said. "It's frustrating because we put ourselves out of the game. We know where we're at and we have set our expectations high and there's no doubt in our minds how this game should have went."

The first three series of the game showed exactly the kind of squad Madison could be. The Cubs limited Paoli to two yards on the first series and Trenton Barnes ripped off a 45-yard touchdown run on Madison's first turn on offense to give the Cubs a quick 7-0 lead.

Madison then forced a fumble, which was recovered by Cam King, on Paoli's next series and the Cubs appeared poised to turn the game into a rout.

David Campbell

Madison's Trenton Barnes (7) celebrates as teammate Louis Humes (11) pulls away from Paoli's Austin Benales on en route to a 70-yard touchdown reception during Friday's game at Cub Field.

But then the mistakes took hold and each one was devastating.

The Rams' Dexter Brown read quarterback Parker Jones' eyes and picked off a pass, returning it 51 yards for a touchdown. On Paoli's next offensive series, Caleb VanMeter tore through a huge hole and went 47 yards for the score and a 14-7 lead.

Madison tied the game 14-14 on an electric 70-yard pitch and catch from Jones to wideout Louis Humes, who made two moves and beat the Rams defense easily down the field. But another interception set the Rams up with a short field and Sawyer Livingston cashed in both the 1-yard touchdown run and the 2-point conversion for a 22-14 halftime lead.

A Jones 1-yard QB sneak early in the third pulled Madison to within 22-21 and that's where the game stood until late into the fourth.

Madison took over possession on its own 14-yard line with just over six minutes to play when yet another mistake doomed the Cubs.

Baylor Ruble took a screen pass from Jones and was stopped after a short gain, but rather than take the yards, he tried to chuck an ill-advised lateral to Barnes, who was not expecting the play. The ball bounced away and the Rams' Cayden Moore finally jumped on it in the end zone for the touchdown.

Madison blocked the extra point to keep the game within reach at 28-21 and on the ensuing kickoff, Barnes erased the mistake by exploding for an 80-yard touchdown return to seemingly tie the game. But with only 10 players on the field, kicker Will Heitz's game-tying PAT was blocked and the Cubs still trailed by one.

With just under six minutes to play, Madison never got the ball back. Paoli successfully ate up the time to secure the win.

Wilson took several timeouts during Paoli's final drive — the last with two minutes to go — and although he said he contemplated letting the Rams score to get the ball back, in the end, he decided to gamble on his defense.

"I trust my defense and they had played great all game. I'd hate to ruin that by allowing them to score," Wilson said. "We just needed a stop and with the way our defense was playing, anything could have happened. I'd do it the same way again."

All of Paoli's yards came on the ground but the Rams averaged only 3.1 yards per carry. Madison, meanwhile, had 138 yards passing between Jones and Kaden Oliver, and added 61 yards on the ground for a total of 199, but the three turnovers and two unconventional scores were too much to overcome.

Barnes finished the game with an even 100 yards on 16 carries while Humes had three catches for 97 yards. Along with the turnovers, Madison quarterbacks were sacked four times for a total of 41 yards.

VanMeter and Livingston rushed for 72 yards each to lead Paoli.

Madison returns to action on Friday when it hosts South Dearborn. The Knights opened the season with a 36-21 win over Seymour, the Cubs' Week 3 opponent.

CROSS COUNTRY

Madison dedicates Lou Knoble course with hokum karem race

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Madison High School unveiled its new on-campus cross country course on Saturday with the inaugural Lou Knoble Hokum Karem event.

The course, which features a one-mile loop and a longer 3,000-meter loop in the woods between the high school and junior high and around the junior high athletic facilities, was named after Knoble, the longtime former coach and art teacher at the school who started the first official cross country program at Madison.

Knoble was on hand for the dedication ceremony which included remarks from Madison Superintendent Dr. Jeff Studebaker, Madison Mayor Bob Courtney, a former runner under Knoble, as well as Dave Collins, Madison's only distance state champion, and former runner Brad Ferguson.

The hokum karem race itself is a unique cross country event where partners run three, one-mile relays and their combined time determines the placing. No team scores were kept.

Madison's girls posted a second, fourth and seventh place finish in the event. Brett Cahall and Cadence Taylor finished second with a combined time of 41:49.15 while Isabel Wilber and Ava Spencer were fourth in 43:29.64, and Cameran Cahall and Chloe Ferris were seventh in 45:38.20.

The Columbus East duo of Elizabeth Stevens and Chloe Kruger won the race in 41:07.59.

"I was very impressed with how the girls ran in the first meet of the season. We have three newcomers to high school cross country and they ran as if they had been doing it for a few years. I am excited to see what they will do this season," Madison girls coach Josh Wilber said. "The course was challenging but a good training ground for the upcoming meets. We are very thankful to school administration and the City of Madison for putting together the resources to get us our own course on campus."

David Campbell

Madison's Leighton Wielgoszinski crosses a bridge over a creek separating the high school and junior high campuses during Saturday's season opening cross county meet at the Cubs' new home course on campus.

It was a much-more crowded event in the boys race with the Madison team of Leighton Wielgoszinski and Noah Burkhardt coming in seventh in 39:05.12, Liam Murphy and Lane Brawner finishing 11th in 40:51.32, Logan Ferris and Brady Royalty placing 14th in 41:04.02, Luke McCarty and Brayden Richards placing 15th in 41:12.14, and Trevor Hoffman and Lucas Owen coming in 17th in 42:02.82.

Shawe's Calli Alderman, opting to run in the boys race since Shawe fielded just one male runner, teamed up with Sam Fewell to place 10th in the boys race in 40:36.76. Jennings County's Gavin Hendrix and Lane Elsner won the race in 33:03.96.

Madison and Shawe both return to action today. Madison travels to Silver Creek while Shawe runs at Switzerland County.

REBELS, PACERS RUN AT SHELBY

Cross country teams from Southwestern and Switzerland County high schools opened the 2020 season on Saturday at the Southwestern Small School Invitational in Shelbyville.

Southwestern's boys were the only local program to field a complete team, placing 14th out of 25 teams with 375 points. Borden won the boys meet with 40 points while Western Boone scored 76 points to claim first in the girls meet.

Switzerland County sophomore Nathan Furnish was the top local finisher in the boys race, coming in 18th in 18:58.86. Avery Osowski was 65th in 20:46.78 for the Pacers, Dylan Sullivan was 123rd in 22:14.40, and Myles Covington was 142nd in 22:52.38.

Defense comes up big in Pacers' win over Noblesville

BY JORDAN BEAR

Switzerland County broke through in the third quarter for what proved to be the winning touchdown then held on a goal-to-go defensive stand to escape with a 7-2 win over Noblesville HomeSchool in the Pacers' football opener on Saturday.

After Noblesville got a safety and the ball back with two minutes to play, it quickly drove downfield to the Switzerland 12. But the Pacers stood firm, securing the season-opening win.

"It was great to see the win. These kids have faced a lot this week and to see them come in and fight hard and grab the win was cool to see," Switzerland County head coach Ryan Jesop said.

Switzerland County wasn't sure who its week one opponent would be after Crawford County canceled due to COVID-19 concerns. The matchup with the Noblesville HomeSchool Lions was only secured early last week.

The game itself was extremely competitive as both teams struggled to move the ball against their respective defenses. Switzerland County had a few chances to break the shutout in the first half, but an interception in the end zone in the first quarter and two missed field goals kept the Pacers off the scoreboard. Noblesville, meanwhile, didn't collect a first down in the first half.

Switzerland County finally broke through late in the third quarter when quarterback Damion Courter found Tyler Hoskins on a 35-yard touchdown pass that staked the Pacers to a 7-0 lead.

The Lions finally found their offensive groove in the fourth quarter after switching to the Wildcat formation to begin moving the ball downfield. However, the Pacers' Lucas Hutchinson came up big with four minutes left in the game when he intercepted Noblesville in the red zone to end the threat.

But as quick as the Pacers retook possession, they gave it right back when Courter was sacked in the end zone for a safety to cut Switzerland's lead to 7-2 with just two minutes remaining. Making matters worse was the fact that Noblesville got the ball back on a free kick.

Stephanie Hellmann

Switzerland County's Dakota Wallace (22) sprints down the field during the Pacers' season opening win on Saturday.

A big run on the very first play drove the Lions quickly downfield and they reached the Pacers' 12-yard-line with 1:22 to go with all three of their timeouts remaining.

But Switzerland County saved its biggest defense stand of the night for the end to force a turnover on downs that gave the ball back so the Pacers could run out the clock and secure the win.

"I'm really proud of the defense but the problem is, they turn around and play offense. When one of them cramps up we have to replace them," Jesop said. "We had a lot of young guys, some sophomores step into positions they weren't used to, which should help as the season goes on that way we can use them if we need them."

Switzerland improves to 1-0 on the season but will now have to wait three weeks before playing again. Contests scheduled against Gallatin County and Trimble County the next two weeks were canceled after the state of Kentucky pushed the start of football season back three weeks. Switzerland's next game is another Saturday contest at Edinburgh — now 0-1 after a 26-20 double overtime loss to Friday to Indianapolis Tindley — on Sept. 12 to open play in the Mid-Indiana Football Conference.

Let the dust settle

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My wife and I are a retired elderly couple living in a ranch-style home. Over the last four years, my wife has had some health issues and is limited in what she can do. I have been more or less a caregiver, doing all the chores around the house, such as cleaning, washing clothes, cooking and shopping.

Her daughter, who is my stepdaughter and over 50 years old, has been asking to help us with the housework. So, this past week, we asked her to clean a dining room for us by dusting; washing windows; cleaning woodwork, a china closet, a buffet and a dining table; and sweeping the floor. I noticed this morning that the buffet looked unclean. I took a baby wipe and just went along the edges, and it was not clean, and the baby wipe was very dirty.

I asked my wife if her daughter had cleaned the buffet. She said yes and that she applied Pledge. Should I approach my stepdaughter, who has a temper? I paid $50 for her work. Should I ignore it or tell her about my finding? Maybe I should just do the work myself. — Dusty Buffet Table

Dear Dusty: It sounds like your stepdaughter might not be the best housekeeper in the world. At the same time, you sound very particular about how cleaning is done. Don't say anything to your stepdaughter. She obviously tried, and her mom is not doing well. Just don't have her clean again.

Dear Annie: This is an open letter to the women's nightwear industry. Give us feminine pajamas. By us, I mean petite women under size 5.

You make beautiful feminine nightgowns — that could go on the dance floor — but pajamas that look like we are going to work in the mines (or sleep in them). They have the same old men's shirts with piping around and down the button front and patch pocket. Where are the laces, ribbons, bows, baby buttons, ruffles and frills? Anything that shows we are female and sexy?

We want necklines that are imaginative and decorative, that show we are women but not sluts. We want sleeves that keep us warm and are pretty, not just serviceable. We want bottoms to keep our thighs from sticking together when it's hot, and to keep us warm when it's cold. And do camouflage the bigness of them — maybe just below the knee to mid-calf with lace or ribbons. And enough fabric to span bigger bellies comfortably. Even at 77, I want to look feminine and sexy for ME, let alone a partner.

Use your imagination, and provide us pajamas we will be proud to wear. — Petite Lace and Bows

Dear Petite Lace and Bows: Perhaps a quick online search could help you find special-sized, feminine PJ's. If you still can't find them, well, here is an opportunity to start your own business of sexy, feminine PJ's for petite women. Yes, even at 77!

The last straw

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I am 68 years old and have been married to my husband for 44 years, and we have two children and three grandchildren. Our son has the three grandchildren, and he is close to the final decree of divorce from his wife of 13 years.

I have always tried to allow our children to live their lives. Our daughter is married and has a very successful career. Our son is successful in the music industry.

I knew there was trouble when I first met the woman who is our soon-to-be ex-daughter-in-law. The problem I saw at the time was the mother. I got a bad vibe from some of the comments she made the first time I met her but brushed it. Fast-forward to a year later, when our son and daughter-in-law decided it was time to look for a house. She and her mother looked for houses and settled on one just eight minutes apart.

As time went on, it became evident that the mom was way too involved in the marriage and their home life. If there was any conflict or problem to work out, our daughter-in-law would run over to Mom's and spend the day. She did not work outside the home. Our son at one point was working two jobs to put a roof over their heads.

Eventually, the situation proved too much for my son. His wife became controlling like her mother and would not allow him much interaction with the kids. He could not take it anymore, and to emphasize the point and try to impress upon her how serious the situation was, he left and got an apartment. They spent a year in counseling, ending with the therapist telling them they needed to separate. The wife said, "I just want him gone."

So now the divorce is happening. The child visitation schedule was agreed upon in January. The situation has been a nightmare ever since. Our son shows up at the designated time and place to pick up the kids for his parenting time, and she refuses to allow them out of the house. She and her mother are there and make derogatory comments about our son in front of the children.

Our son has been recording the interactions, and I have listened to them and am heartbroken as to what is being said in front of the children. Our son's lawyer just wants to keep things peaceful and avoids filing a contempt of court order even though the mom is in complete contempt of court.

The final straw was yesterday, our son's birthday, when he was supposed to have the kids from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. He was willing to spend less time to be accommodating. He was going to pick them up and take them to a park for a picnic lunch for just a couple of hours. No go.

What should I do? I am very stressed about the welfare of the kids and knowing how the mom and her mother are discouraging the father-child relationship. — Stressed-out Grandma

Dear Stressed-out Grandma: The father-child relationship is as important as the mother-child relationship, and it is a shame she is taking out her frustration with your son on your grandchildren. Sadly, there isn't much you can do except support your son and encourage him to maybe get a new lawyer and keep fighting to see his children.

SOCCER ROUNDUP

Heitz PK lifts Madison over Silver Creek

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Will Heitz provided the lone goal and the Madison defense pitched a shutout to power the Cubs to a 1-0 win over Silver Creek in boys soccer season opening win on Saturday.

Heitz knocked in a penalty kick in the 22nd minute for what proved to be the only goal Madison would need. Goalie Zach Forner stopped three shots in goal to claim the shutout, but the Cub defense dominated the action from the start.

Madison, now 1-0 on the season, travels to Scottsburg tonight for what should be a matchup between the two best teams in the sectional. The Cubs then host Jennings County on Thursday in their first home match of the season.

SHAWE 3RD AT JENNINGS

Shawe Memorial's soccer team posted an impressive third-place finish in the inaugural Panther Cup at Jennings County this weekend in the Hilltoppers' season openers.

Shawe opened the tournament with an impressive 5-0 win over Salem on Friday in the opening round but then lost a 3-2 heart-breaker to Decatur Central in a shootout in the semifinals on Saturday.

The Hilltoppers then rolled over Ohio River Valley Conference rival Milan 4-1 in the third-place tilt.

"I am really pleased with the overall results of the weekend for our group. We learned a good amount about who we are and what we want to do," Shawe head coach Cameron Willoughby said. "It's a big ask to have these guys play three games in such a short period, but it also allows them to understand that using passing and little supporting runs takes a lot less energy than it does to try to dribble down the field."

Shawe blew open the opener with four goals in the second half to take the win over Salem. Freshman Miguel Morales-Vazquez scored twice while Johan Betancourth connected on a penalty kick and Christian Whitham and Jacob Hertz added goals. Gage Dermon had an assist.

Keeper Hunter Kennett had two saves in goal and Wyatt Nichter one for the Hilltoppers.

Shawe fell behind 2-0 to Decatur Central early in the second half but rallied to tie the game 2-2 on a goal by Morales-Vazquez and a header from Dermon.

The game went to a shootout with each team hitting their first three shots before Shawe's fourth and fifth attempts went wide allowing Decatur Central to clinch the win.

"We don't like to lose, but I will tell you I learned just what kind of heart this group has by battling back and pushing to go for the win late," Willoughby said. "I'm super proud of this group for their effort today."

Less than an hour after the loss to Decatur Central, Shawe was back in action against Milan. The fatigue allowed Milan to seize an early 1-0 lead, but the Hilltoppers responded with two goals by Hertz and one each from Davis Grote and Christian Ortiz-Morales to pull away for the win.

Kennett had 12 saves for Shawe while Nichter had one.

"I also want to give a big shout out to Eric Liu and Louis Liu in our defense who don't necessarily get the stats on the stat sheet, but make a big impact on the flow of the game," Willoughby said. "Also, our Captain Christian Whitham, who ends up being extremely versatile allowing us to rotate personnel when breaks are needed."

Shawe, now 2-1 on the season, hosted South Dearborn on Monday and opens ORVC play on Wednesday at home against South Ripley.

LADY CUBS FALL TO CREEK

Madison's girls soccer team lost 6-1 loss to Silver Creek at home on Saturday.

Anna Wright and Natalie Day had two goals each for the Dragons while Carley Troutman and Olivia Johnston had one each.

Madison, now 1-1 on the season, traveled to South Ripley on Monday and will not play again until Tuesday, Sept. 1 when it hosts Columbus East.
